DAVID DIONNE
Executive Director
Red Mountain Park

David Dionne is Executive Director to Red Mountain Park. Prior to joining Red Mountain Park Dionne served as Chief of Trails and Natural Areas for Anne Arundel County, Maryland. David was selected to be the first Park Superintendent of the Baltimore & Annapolis Trail Park in 1987 and developed a park operations plan that included many innovative volunteer initiatives; trail operations practices and policies, and community building programs. Since 1987 Anne Arundel County has expanded its trail program to include several new trail projects that have been recognized nationally and internationally as models for trail operation and safety.

David is recognized for his leadership in trails management and has been appointed to many important committees and panels. In 1997 David was asked to be a member of the White House Millennium Council's Green Ribbon Panel on trails, where he helped set up the Millennium Trails Program. In 1999 he became a member of the National Endowment for the Arts' Committee for Art on Millennium Trails. From 2001 until 2005 David was the Chairman of the National Board of Trustees for the East Coast Greenway Alliance, a non-profit corporation linking local trail projects between Maine and Florida into a continuous 2900-mile route. In 2005 David was appointed by Governor Robert Ehrlich, Jr. to be the Chairman of the Maryland Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee where he served until 2007. In addition to his years spent with the Department of Recreation and Parks, Dionne has served a total of 31 years of leadership for non-profits entities such as the East Coast Greenway Alliance, Severn River Lions Club, and the Friends of Anne Arundel County Trails.
